Buffalo Bills Fieldhouse at ADPRO Sports Training Center

OVERVIEW

The ADPRO Sports Training House, which is adjacent to the Buffalo Bills' Highmark Stadium, is the premier indoor practice facility in the NFL. This impressive training center provides everything the players need under one roof, creating more efficiency for the entire team and the staff. Features include the indoor turf field, expanded weight room, sleep pods, float therapy tanks, yoga studios, massage rooms, recovery rooms, and more!

On game days, the fieldhouse is transformed for the ultimate "Gameday Experience" — enabling fans to get even closer to their favorite team. The "experience" is a big celebration, with youth football, interactive games, and the official pregame radio show.

Since the Buffalo Bills have been satisfied with the two previous synthetic turf fields that A-Turf has installed, they decided to — once again — use our A-Turf Titan product for this show-stopper project.

KEY CHALLENGES AND SOLUTIONS

Considering this project was for an NFL team — and, of course, our favorite team — timing was everything! In order to get the players back on the field to practice, we had to move quickly. In fact, our certified turf installation crew was able to meet the deadline a few days earlier than required. Since the entire project was fast-tracked, the A-Turf team had to bring their A-Game.

UNIQUE PROJECT FEATURES

The center field logo and graphics are prominent features for this practice field, as they are identical to the Buffalo Bills Highmark Stadium Field (originally Rich Stadium, then Ralph Wilson Stadium from 1998 to 2015, then New Era Field from 2016 to 2020, and Bills Stadium from 2020 to 2021).

There's nothing like a happy client, especially when the client is the Buffalo Bills! We are so pleased to have the opportunity to provide a practice field that will help maximize their performance for game days!
